

EUROPEAN REVIEW OF PUBLIC LAW

The European Review of Public Law is a quarterly publication, established in 1989 to create an international forum for analysis and discussion of issues in the development of constitutional and administrative law in Europe.

Scope: Not only does it examine a wide range of issues that relate to the European Union, the European Convention on Human Rights, the national public law and practices, as well as to their mutual interaction and influence but it also covers other jurisdictions that interplay with the European Public Law systems and/or offer relevant comparative insights. To chronicle the evolution of national public law in the enlarged geopolitical area of Europe, the Review presents, in each issue, recent developments in the domestic legal order which are summarised and analysed by authorities in the field. Chronicled developments on the case law of the European Court of Justice are also presented.

The ERPL devotes one issue of its quarterly publication to the conference of the European Group of Public Law (EGPL) which meets annually to discuss a particular public law issue of contemporary importance, with high-quality contributions providing a European as well as an international perspective. Recent conference topics have included: Freedom of Expression: Limitations and Prospects, Brexit, Public Law: 30 Years Later, For a New Public Law.

The ERPL is committed to linguistic diversity and accepts submissions in seven languages: English, French, Spanish, Russian, Portuguese, German and Italian. All articles or chronicles are accompanied by short abstracts in the language in which the text is written plus English and French, so that the theme of each paper is accessible to all readers.
